A DANDEROUS PLAYTHING.—Boy Shot by a Toy Cannon.—Saturday afternoon a number of small boys were amusing themselves by firing off a small toy cannon. They had an old straw hat for a target, and loaded the cannon with buckshot for the purpose of tearing the hat to pieces. The cannon was loaded, and a boy named George Manners was stooping in front of it to place the hat in position, when a spark from a fire in proximity to the spot alighted upon the powder at the touchhole, and it was ignited and the cannon discharged, the shot taking effect in the head and breast of young Manners. the political mercury up to fever heat all afternoon and evening, and the refreshing showers of the night fell upon heated and excited crowds all over the city and county. Primaries are fast becoming notable days in this city, and are eagerly anticipated by at least two elements, the saloon keepers, and the persons who support the saloons; the former because it materially increases their receipts, and the latter because they are the mediums of this increase. There is also a third party who is not altogether indifferent to primaries, and that is the City Sergeant, for after the Hurly Burly, he generally comes in for his share of candidates money in the shape of fines, costs, &c.

For several years the primaries of this grace to it, and the sooner the people, not those we mean who are benefitted by the sunlimited flow of beer, but those to whom the seenes and incidents of last Saturday are both distasteful and disgusting, show a decisive reprobation of those we mean who are benefitted by the sunlimited flow of beer, but those to whom the seenes and incidents of last Saturday are both distasteful and disgusting, show a decisive reprobation of those the postles before now for much less heinous offenses, and the same spirit should animate honest voters at all future elections. We give the resultso far as heard, and the names of successful candidates. In Washington district, Sweeney has three delegates, viz.; S. T. Crawford, P. Gundling and J. Hegner. In Madison, Brown has three, Mortimer Pollock, Fred Sturgeon and G. Beall. Brown also has three in Clay, viz.; W. V. Hoge. Simon Hork heimer and J. T. Campbell; also three in Union, G. G. Hannon, Pat. Fitzsimmons and Joseph Werner. In Centre, John Butterfield, C. W. Bingell and Michael Fox, are Brown men. Brown also carries the country districts, which will be more than enough to nominate him. Handlan has Webster and Ritchie solid, and stands well in other districts upon a second choice.

There was an unusually large vote poll

by standers before any blood was spilled. Cour's advertising car is at Bridgeport, and the city will be billed for the great circus to-day. Coup married a daughter of Barnum's, and we suppose inherits his talent as a showman.

The B. & O. R. R. Co. has arranged for round trip tickets to Cincinnati to the bemocratic National Convention at $10 25. Tickets good going from the 16th to the 25th and good returning until June 28th. This board walk above Seventh street needs the attention of the Street Commissioner since the heavy rain, as the gutter is stopped up in several places and causes the walk to overflow whenever a rain occurs.

Drawing to a Close.—The Public Schools' Annual Commencement.—The Commencement or graduate system adopted a couple of years ago by the Board of Education for the Grammar schools of the city has heretofore been a decided success. This year, from present indications, bids fair to be no exception. The annual Commencements will be held next Friday night, that being the last day of the present school year. The final examinations in most of the schools closed last week, and this week will be devoted to regular school work and preparations for the entertain week will be devoted to regular school work and preparations for the entertainment of Friday night. The graduating class of 1880 is composed of three boys and twenty-three girls. The boys are Robert Haslett, of Ritchle: David Rahr, of Wobster, and Eugene Hanke, of Union District. The girls are Laura A. Frew, Kate McCune, Mollie Kuhn, Belle M. There are few opcasions in the course of a year that are regarded with an equal general interest with these commencements. The varied standing of the pupils' families, the fact that they come from all sections of the city, and the general public's proprietorship of the institutions, combine to make them of absorbing interest to a large majority of our citisens. No doubt the audience will be as large this year as heretofore, and the exercises as interesting, and the class acquit themselves as creditably to themselves and as honorably to their teachers and their schools.

TARY.—The Pittsburgh Dispatch has a correspondent in this city who, to say the least of him, is notoriously untruthful and annoying. His latest effort is the sensational report concerning the Peniters and Property and the resignation of Capt. Andy Wilson. The story referred to is that Capt. "Then there is nothing in the Dispatch article reproduced by the Sunday Leader of this city?"

"Icharacterize the whole thing as a fraud, and there is no truth in it. The Governor, if he were at home, could give you the whole story. The accounts at the penisentiary are carefully audited and everything goes on well, and cannot conceive the origin of such stuff."

BLOO ON TIE MOON.—There is an implacable warfare among the brethren who conduct the campaign and handle the funds for the Democracy. A certain complete member of the State Committee and the proprietor of the Market street or gran almost came to blows a few days say in the sanctum of the latter; only the age of the newspaper man prevented his fleshy friend from whipping him, so the latter asserted. How the dispute arose deponent sayeth not, but in the course of it little attention was paid to the amenities that usually govern the intercourse of genilemen in their exalted positions. He also referred to the sales applied to kim an epithet which reflected at once upon himself and shales and the pr deponent sayeth not, but in the course of it little attention was paid to the amenities that usually govern the intercourse of gentlemen in their exalted positions. In fact, if the narration as we have it be anything like correct, a parallel can only be found at Billingsgate. Baker reflected on the Falstaffian proportions of his friend in anything but dignified language. In this the "lean and hungry Cassius" was doubtless actuated solely by envy. But he also applied to him an epithet which reflected at once upon himself and his maternal progenitor, adding by way of smphasis certain adjectives not quotable to ears polite, and only allowable when used by a minister in warning his hearers of the warth to come. He also referred to him in language more expressive than courteous as a certain kind of a lisr. Mr. Reilly, in equally foreible, if more polite, terms, impeached his slim friend's honesty, tand accused him of a list of assorted offenses against laws human and divine. For a time the air was blue, and occasional is snatches of the conversation were wafted to outside ears. Altogether, the campaign which opens on the Democratic side to-day bids fair to be an exceedingly lively and interesting one.

few grander spectacles than such a national tournament as the late Republican Convention. The political athletes found full play there for their powers, and every resource possible within the party so long identified with freedom, was drawn upon to the last penny. Intellect and sentiment, cheek and bravado, finesse and cunning, the gray matter and the gross matter of the brain were in full employ. And, whatever may be urged in regard to the unseemly excesses of demonstration, the whooping and yelling and mere brute noise, the fact remains that it is grandly re-assuring to see such a vast body of men, gathered from such a wide territory, all wrought to a fever heat of excitement, divided into great factions, engaged in a fierce struggle for supremacy
